PRIORITIES:

Priorities will be established by the Quality Council and Governing Board based on the following:

- 1. High Volume (Care or service occurs frequently or affects large number of patients);
- 2. High Risk (Patients are potentially exposed to serious complications or are deprived of substantial benefits when care is not provided appropriately);
- 3. Problem Prone (Documented history of producing inappropriate variations in care/service);
- 4. Regulatory Issue, or an area identified for on-going evaluation by and accreditation body, state or federal government or
- 5. An issue that has been identified through performance improvement activities.

All changes made in priorities will be made by the Governing Board.

The Plan-Do-Check-Act cycle is the model to be used in carrying out Performance Improvement Activities.

PLAN

- An operational plan for testing the chosen improvement action is created;
- Data to monitor the process for improvement is determined;

DO

- Collect and analyze the data on the improvement process;
- Make improvement changes and take action when indicated and appropriate;

CHECK

- Establish decision/review points to determine the effectiveness of changes;
- · Assess the effects of the improvements;
- Analyze the improvement results;

ACT

- Team meets on a regular basis to determine what was learned;
- Tests or actions re repeated if necessary to ensure process improvement;
- Communicate information to the Quality Council and Leadership.

DATA COLLECTION:

Data that will be considered for collection to monitor performance includes the following:

- 1. Performance measures related to accreditation and other requirements;
- 2. Patient statistics;
- 3. Financial data;
- 4. Outcomes of processes and services;
- 5. Patient and family needs, expectations and satisfactions;
- 6. Staff views regarding performance improvement and improvement opportunities;
- 7. Operative and other procedures that place patients at risk;
- 8. Medical necessary and appropriateness of care (utilization management)
- 9. Risk management activities (environment of care and infection control)
- 10. Quality control activities.
- 11. Peer Review Activities
- 12. Data from external and internal performance benchmarking activities that allow for the comparisons of key performance measures with other similar organizations or with recognized best practices of national or professional targets or goals. These can be defined by the organization.

Performance measurement indicators are essential for all data collection and are required when looking at statistical tools, such as control charts, Preto charts, histograms, and scatter diagrams. Statistical tools are especially helpful in comparing performance with historical patterns and assessing variation and stability.

Variation is inherent in very process and has two general types and causes.

Common cause variation is inherent in every process. A process that varies only because of common causes is considered "stable" and can be improved.

Special-cause variation arises from unusual circumstances or events that may be difficult to anticipate such as human error and mechanical malfunction. Special cause variation should be identified and eliminated; however removing a special cause does not improve the basic level of performance as it only eliminates defective, atypical, defective or irregular performance.

The organization's Quality Assessment & Performance Improvement Plan shall use appropriate statistical quality control techniques. The assessment of the Quality Assessment & Performance Improvement Plan shall include at the minimum the following:

- 1. Comparison to data over time.
- 2. Comparison with practice guidelines in the literature and expert opinions.
- 3. Comparison to external and internal databases.
- 4. Comparison to company internal databases.

Intensive assessment will occur in the following cases:

- 1. When there is undesirable variation.
- 2. When there is a sentinel event that triggers concern.
- 3. When trends or patterns are identified in the assessment of data.
- 4. When the organization's performance varies from recognized standards.
- 5. When the organization wishes to improve an already good performance.

When assessment leads to issues concerning individual performance the following shall occur:

- 1. The Medical Director will review licensed independent practitioner issues through its process of peer review.
- 2. The organization shall systematically improve its performance by improving existing and new processes.

Decisions to improve existing processes shall be based upon the following:

- 1. An undesirable change occurs.
- 2. It is part of an important function as defined by applicable accrediting bodies.
- 3. It is a required item for improvement by an accrediting body.
- 4. Consideration of the organization's mission, vision and/or priorities is impacted.

IMPLEMENTATION OF CHANGES:

The Quality Council shall direct the implementation of changes that are worthwhile improvements, which were identified through its' plan.

These improvements shall have the following characteristics:

- 1. The effect of the improvement is assessed, and if there is success it is implemented organization wide as appropriate.
- 2. Improvement efforts shall be directed at processes, not individuals. However, if an individual has performance problems that he or she is unable or unwilling to improve, his or her clinical privileges or job assignment are modified, as indicated, or other appropriate action will be taken via medical staff peer review, or according to the contractual terms, or policies.
- 3. Improvement activities of a facility-wide nature shall utilize a systematic approach to redesigning current processes or acting on opportunities for incremental improvement.

4. Examples of different approaches that a company might utilize include FOCUS-PDCA, etc. The Governing Board is responsible for deciding which approach is to be used.

The improvement activities shall meet the following expectations:

- 1. It will consider the impact on the relevant dimensions of performance.
- 2. It shall set performance expectations of change.
- 3. It shall included adopting, or creating new measures of performance.
- 4. It will involve those individuals, professionals, and services closest to the improvement activity.

ASSESSMENT:

The goal for the assessment process is to compare the facility with itself, with others, with standards, and with best practices. Assessments may be derived from authoritative sources such as professional associations, clinical literature, historical documentation or internal consensus.

Two types of indicators may be utilized: sentinel-event indicators and aggregate-data indicators.

- 1. A sentinel event indicator identifies an individual event or occurrence that is significant and triggers further investigation and review. The threshold will be set at 0% or 100%. A sentinel event is important in triggering an event for evaluation and is useful in risk management to prevent future occurrences. When a threshold is not set at 0% or 100%, it may be necessary not only to look at the total data but also to break down it more by individual, event, or situation.
- 2. Aggregate-data indicators quantify a process or outcome that may be related to many causes and may occur frequently. Aggregated-data indicators are divided into two types: continuous variable indicators and rate based indicators.

Continuous variable indicators: measures performance along a continuous scale (i.e. the number of patient visits; the number of surgical visits).

Rate based indicators: The value of each measurement is expressed as a proportion or as a ratio.

- 1. For a proportion, the number of occurrences is expressed in relationship to the entire group within which the occurrence could take place. The numerator is expressed as a subset of the denominator (i.e. the number of events/the number of surgeries).
- 2. For a ratio, the numerator and denominator measure different phenomena (i.e. the number of surgeries with infections/the number of number of surgeries).

ROOT CAUSE ANALYSIS:

Intensive assessment utilizing a Root Cause Analysis form is to be initiated whenever there is an undesirable variation in performance of the following:

- 1. Important single events, absolute levels, patterns or tends that vary significantly and undesirably from those expected;
- 2. Performance varies significantly and undesirably from other organizations;
- 3. Performance varies significantly and undesirably from recognized standards;
- 4. Operative procedures that place patients at risk;
- When a sentinel event, as defined by Sentinel Event Policy (accreditation agencies) has occurred.

WHAT IS PDCA?

The PDCA cycle is used to test and implement the process of improving a function using these steps:

PLAN understand, then propose an improvement, and finally decide how an improvement action will be tested and how data will be collected to determine what effect the action has.

Do perform the test by implementing the action on a small scale.

Checks analyze the effect of the action being taken.

Act. fully implement the action, reassess it and sometimes even choose another action.
