I and my friends learned that Weiss Memorial Hospital and West Suburban Hospital has been sold to Dr Prasad from Michigan. But his linkedin says he never owned a hospital and as per public records it shows that these two hospitals are losing money. Dr Prasad is not a licensed doctor and he never practiced in USA.

The financial background of Dr Prasad has to be checked in detail for future hospital financial challenges. We had this Galesburg hospital experience recently.

As per public records, Dr Prasad companies in Michigan from past couple years never made any money or did any turnover. His Networth seems not more than $400K. These indications may lead to disaster or some kind of real estate play and Bankrupt.

As whole the Buyer is a small company. As citizens of Illinois, we are not confident about Dr Prasad ability to run this hospital. If it stays under Pipeline (Pipeline has financial ability) or sold to national network buyer is welcome.
